

GIRL'S HEAD SLICED OFF IN AUTO WRECK

THE
EDITOR
SAYS—

An another thing that Sikeston can brag about is that we have a man in Bill Malone that has such a keen eye that he can see a bullet coming his way, close his eye just in time for the bullet to barely miss putting his eye out. If you don't believe it read the story in the last issue of The Standard. This bullet might have been fired by one of the slow-up shots that we see in the movies.

Mrs. Louis McCutchen, of Campbell, Missouri, and her sister, Mrs. Corder, of Malden, were Sikeston visitors Tuesday. It was the pleasure of the editor to meet these ladies.

The headline said "Big Democratic Vote". The story explained Joseph Raggio, Philadelphia, squeezed through his front door and voted Tuesday, the first time in 15 years. Raggio weighs 667 pounds and is 6 feet 6 inches tall.

The Federal Government is asking bids on rouge, eyebrow pencils, cold cream and powder puffs. WPA officials said the cosmetics are to be used by needy actors and actresses in plays to be presented in CCC camps and community centers. Ain't that swell.

From London comes word that there are two million more women in the British Isles eligible to vote than there are men. We suggest polygamy for the British in order the extra women can claim an interest in a man.

According to a letter before me I am appointed as a co-chairman to raise funds for Will Rogers' memorial to be erected somewhere away from Sikeston. This is fine. We never missed a Will Rogers picture and Will will never miss the contribution that we are not going to give. If there are any one in this community who cannot find some needy one at home and alive to give their contribution to, and they prefer to send it to New York headquarters they can bring it to this office and we'll send it on.

This Fall season has been one that was a God send to those without work without fuel, and without sufficient food. No cold weather that caused suffering. It has been rather disappointing to cotton farmers as pickers could hardly get into the fields, and with the short crop all were anxious to get the cotton out while it was of good color. Not being a farmer we have an idea the open weather with numerous showers has given the wheat a good start that will soon give pasture for stock. Lets hope for the best and try to live within our means.

Congratulations to Judge Geo. H. Moore, federal judge of St. Louis, for fining a New York lawyer for contempt of court in a recent case before him. Also, congratulations for criticizing the arrangements in his rooms in the new federal building. Ordinarily plans for the quarters of a federal judge are usually submitted for his approval, but in this case evidently they were not. Through the custodian of the building changes can be made to suit the convenience of judge, jury and witness.

The Tuesday edition of The Standard will carry a story from the Dexter Statesman showing an unholy alliance between Kip Briney and his Democratic following and Charlie Pather, a self-confessed criminal and Republican leader in Stoddard County, which means that Stoddard will likely be lost to the Democrats in the next election.

Rumors have been going the rounds for some weeks that the Sikeston branch of the International Shoe Factory would close down. So far as The Standard could ascertain there is not a thing to the rumor. Considerable work in the way of changing the interior to make more room probably caused the rumor.

The Standard has a great number of small accounts owing that our collector is trying to close up in order that our books may be straightened up. In future no accounts will run over thirty days as it takes money to make the mare go, pay the hands Saturday night, buy white paper and many other necessities.

The owner of the pecan grove near Diehlstadt would like for the Sikeston folks who were to gather nuts on the shares to remember that they drove off without dividing what they had gathered. This is the sort of thing that makes people in the country dislike to have town people come to their places.

The signed statements of eye witnesses to the two auto wrecks south of Sikeston in which persons were killed have been placed in the hands of county officers of New Madrid County for investigation and prosecution if the cases warrant. Liquor and lack of precaution killed two women.

In addition to the cash expenditure of $5,657.93 for direct relief, the following Federal Surplus Commodities were disbursed as supplemental aid in Scott county, upon which no monetary value is directly charged to the case load, but which represents a cash value in excess of $2,000.

Surplus Commodities — October 1935 Allocations

904 sacks of flour

60 cases of prunes

40 dozen glass jars

60 dozen jar caps

84 dozen jar rubbers

40 mattresses.

362 cases canned beef.

The expenditures shown in the above tables do not include executive costs of salaries, travel, and miscellaneous expenses, which totals $610, or less than 8 per cent of the gross expenditure of $8,267.93 expended in Scott County for October, 1935, as shown in the following schedule:

Direct Relief Only $6,657.93

Surplus Commodities $2,000.00

Salaries, Travel, and Misc. 610.00

Gross Expenditure $8,267.93

The County Court appropriates approximately $150 per month toward the Relief Program for certain administrative expenses, such as office rent, postage, telephone, lights, heat, et cetera, for which a direct accounting is made to the court monthly.

It is imperative, with the limited funds available, that actual relief expenditures be administered in a most conservative manner in order to assist the greatest number of needy cases. The Scott County Relief Committee, as well as the staff of the Relief Office, desires the citizens of Scott County to become more familiar with the program, and earnestly solicits their support in intelligently administering relief to the needy residents according to regulations prescribed by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

One Ethiopian remedy is made of herbs ground up with the bodies of frogs. Surgical operations, such as cutting off a leg that cannot be cured, Dr. Martine says, are often performed with hatchets, no chloroform, of course.

The edges of a bad cut are pressed together and huge "warrior" ants are made to grip both sides of the cut with their pincers to hold the lips of the wound together. Then the ant's bodies are torn off and the pincers left for "surgical stitching." Hemorrhager are stopped with boiling butter, which hurts, and the "sarco-phagus" fly is put into a bullet wound to burrow its way in and look for the bullet. An Ethiopian patient needs a sound constitution. Powdered frogs and herbs are the favorite family remedy. We must not be too scornful of our Ethiopian fellow man for in the early middle ages remedies as strange and unbelievably stupid were used by European Christians, and, by the way, Jewish doctors, who already understood scientific medical treatment, were forbidden to treat Christians.—Arthur Brisbane.

Pay, a 3-year-old white spitz belonging to Mrs. Mary Bierna of Buffalo, N. Y., has three tails. The dog was born with the strange malformation.

NEW GASOLINE FEATURED IN STANDARD ADS

The cast of "A Feather in Her Hat" thought that Pauline Lord was on a walking tour until she told them that she memorizes her lines best while pacing the floor.

Washington Comment

About this season of the year in 1782, the United States and Great Britain were patching up their difficulties and putting the final touches on the business of getting rid of George the Third as ruler of this country. The Greeks do not seem to have a corresponding antipathy for Kings in general, and in particular for kings named George. They chose the month of November 1935 as the time for restoring the monarchy and seating their George again on the throne. A little more than a decade ago, he was deposed under the polite procedure which consists in being asked to resign. Presumably he is glad that he is no longer out of work, but if one may judge by his pictures, George is a keen young man and must be doing some thinking. During his stay in England, he may have read Walter Scott. As he jogs back to Greece and to his old job, a few lines from The Lady of the Lake may come to his mind:

Who o'er the herd would wish to reign,
Fantastic, fickle, fierce and vain.

Kings, by the way, are not the only ones who can stage a comeback. A while ago, pigs were such bad reputations that the farmers were paid for putting them out of a society in which they were not wanted. New occasions make new duties, and now the Department of Agriculture is contemplating offering a bounty to hog-raisers. This is a good world after all, wherein even a pig has a chance.

In addition to other woes, China is having trouble with her currency. Too much silver has been slipping out of the land and the government has called it in, to be replaced by paper money, much as gold was impounded by the United States. The currency question is too intricate to be interesting, and is almost as delicate a subject as religion. Abandoning the relative merits of gold and silver standards to discussion by experts and partisans, it is to be observed that China's money troubles probably will blow over and the average Chinaman will not know that there has been so much as a cloud in the sky. We were somewhat doleful as we toted our gold pieces to the bank, but things went on as before and the slip of green paper in the pocket book has the same reassuring qualities as formerly. Money is regarded as delicate, but for so frail a creature it seems able to stand a good deal of thumping and still do its work, so far as practical purposes are concerned.

An unfortunate demented man climbs into the cab of an engine and runs a train to wreck. So long as the insane think that they are Napoleon or Gladstone, little harm is done. It is not so when delusion leads a man to believe that he is a railroad engineer. A live engineer has more to do with the welfare of the public than a dead general or statesman.

It is reported that the steamer Lusitania has been discovered on the ocean floor, off the southeast end of Ireland. She carried almost twelve hundred persons to their doom. The sinking is credited to a German U-boat, said to have been commanded by Capt. Schweiger. War is war and navy men are reputed to be hard-boiled, yet it is to be wondered whether Capt. Schweiger, if living, did not have a thoughtful if not uncomfortable hour or two after reading in the paper that the remains of the vessel had been found. He is twenty years older than he was when he looked through the periscope at the Lusitania. What happened immediately thereafter may not seem to him as glorious now as it did then. Of still more consequence is the fact that the friends and kin of twelve hundred will get no comfort from the news. There is a wealth of wisdom in the oft-repeated question: Why bring that up?

In an effort to solve the parking problem it has been suggested that the roofs of buildings in business areas be converted into parking areas; from which it appears that auto drivers of the future are likely to have their ups and downs.

For Motorists to Remember

Automobile exhaust fumes have cost the lives of more than 500 persons each year for the past three years. That is a terrifying toll, but it is even worse when it is considered that almost all such deaths occur during the five of six months when motorists ride with cars tightly closed to shut out the cold weather.

With the approaching winter season comes the warning of auto associations advising motorists to: Have exhaust lines inspected for leaks.

Drive with windows partly open.

Stop occasionally on long trips and walk about in the fresh air.

Leave garage doors open until after the motor has been turned off.

This is merely a common-sense program, but it is one that must be remembered because there are no red lights or signs along the roads to remind you of it. —Chicago Herald-Examiner.

W. P. A. WORKER IS GRATEFUL FOR HIS JOB

Dear Mr. Editor:
I don't suppose you would want to print what I have to say in your paper, because it always seems so crowded. But I feel so good tonight that somehow I just couldn't help writing and telling you about it and I thought that maybe others felt just the same as I and that maybe it would do some good to let people know how good everything seems. Cause I got a job.

I went to work today on the WPA job here and it sure seems fine to be on a payroll again. The wife and kids are all tickled and we had about the best meal tonight we have had for a long time.

The storekeeper was tickled, too.

You know it has been pretty hard going the last four or five years, not much work and not much prospects. We got along somehow but it has been tough sledding. Of course, if it hadn't been for the relief and the relief work we never could have made it. Our money and lots of other things that we had laid up when work and wages was good, was gone a long time ago. The wife and I have done lots of scheming to get along as well as we did but for the last two months we have been mighty discouraged. This WPA job don't pay nearly as much as I used to make but it is sure a whole lot better than nothing and I am mighty proud to get it. Some of the fellows on the job are kicking a little bit but don't think that they are not all glad to be there. And I was just wondering tonight what we would do this winter if this WPA job hadn't started. Lots of folks are saying that the government is spending too much money and that it is all going to have to be paid back. Well maybe they are and maybe it is, but I ain't worrying none about that. I used to worry about taxes but I haven't had to worry about any for quite awhile now and it looks like it is going to be quite a spell before I lose much sleep over taxes. What I have been wanting is a job and now I have got it and I know that somehow and sometime the bill will be paid. It just seems to me that every fellow who has been in my shape for the last few years would be mighty proud and thankful to President Roosevelt for giving us this chance to work. I remember when I used to take the daily paper I used to read about the government paying back lots of money to rich people and companies that had been paid in for taxes. It seems like some fellow in Washington figured out that they had paid too much and gave it back to them. That was back when a fellow named Mellon was running things. I thought that was kind of wrong but of course didn't say much about it because I kept hearing people say that he was a pretty smart duck. But now it seems that if he had kept the money that maybe the government wouldn't be so short of money now. I would rather see them spending the money fixing schools and building sidewalks and giving work to men who need it than handing it back to people who never missed it in the first place.

But maybe I shouldn't think like that, it might be unconstitutional. I heard a fellow in the barber shop the other day, he used to have some sort of a state job when Mr. Baker was Governor.

nor and is a pretty smart fellow, and he said that the constitution was in grave danger. It seems that somewhere the government, Roosevelt or somebody was going to make some outfit work their men shorter hours and for better pay, without the consent of the company that was doing the paying and this fellow said it was unconstitutional and should be stopped. I didn't say anything but I just thought that if I was working and somebody was trying to get me better pay and shorter hours I wouldn't worry about the constitution. SCOTT COUNTY MEN TO TALK AT SOILS MEETING

The second annual soils and crops conference is going to be held at Benton on Tuesday, November 19, beginning at 10:00 A. M. in the Community building.

M. J. Regan of the College of Agriculture will discuss pastures, while O. T. Coleman will give the soils discussion. One of the main features of the program will be short reports of Scott County farmers on how they have handled some of their problems and this is expected to be the most interesting portion of the program. Mr. Carl O. Luper is going to have the most interesting report ever made of work of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Sikeston.

The following men are going to give short reports: Alvin Gasser, Evin Burke, Theon Roberts, Ben O. Matthews, S. G. Rodgers, Tom Allen, Louis Dohogne, R. Q. Black, Arthur Schwitz, Louis Dumey and John Scheeter.

These reports will be made on uses and results of winter barley, Korean lespedeza for pasture and hay, establishing stands or sericea lespedeza, the returns of liming soil for alfalfa, crimson clover, the value of crotalaria on building sandy soils, and the result of Midland Yellow Dent corn and Michigan Wonder Wheat for Scott county conditions.

Complete reports on the 1935 three-day open season on deer reveal that 98 legal deer were taken in fourteen Ozark counties. The return by counties follows: Gasconade, 26; Taney, 19; Dent, 13; Franklin, 10; Carter, 10; Crawford, 5; Ste. Genevieve, 6; Dunklin, 2; Wayne, 2; Osage, Ripley, Shannon, Oregon, and Reynolds, one each.

It is believed that landowners, who are not required to possess a license to hunt deer on their lands, took a toll of at least 50 additional animals.

THE FASTEST-STARTING GASOLINE IN STANDARD OIL HISTORY HAS ARRIVED

35% QUICKER WARM-UP WITH NEW STANDARD RED CROWN
AT THE PRICE OF "REGULAR" GASOLINE

SOME surprising new discoveries have been made recently about what it takes to start a cold automobile engine—start it and warm it up to full, smooth drive-away power faster.

For many years Standard's research staff has been at work on this problem. Not satisfied with laboratory experiment alone, they have conducted thousands of road tests—in all sorts of temperatures—using all sorts of gasoline formulas.

And now they come forward with a motor fuel that is different, in many respects,

It's ready in the pumps now—where you see the sign of STANDARD OIL SERVICE.

One suggestion: Because this new Double-Quick gasoline does turn on full power in a cold engine so quickly, the use of a light grade of winter motor oil is desirable to assure instant, active lubrication of all moving parts. Iso-Vis "D"—10-W or 20-W—is a perfect running mate for the new Standard Red Crown.

"SOCIAL IMPLICATIONS OF THE ROLL CALL"

By L. D. MacIntyre, Director of Roll Call, Midwestern Branch, American Red Cross, St. Louis.

In the minds of millions of Americans—from the humblest to the most outstanding citizen—the Roll Call of the Red Cross is a familiar term. However, for those who have grown up since that World War which witnessed the rebirth of the organization, an explanation may be needed. The term "Roll Call" refers to the annual solicitation of membership and funds for the continuation of chapter and national programs for the ensuing year. It can be said as truly today as it was in 1917, that through the Roll Call the American Red Cross submits its record to the people and seeks from them a renewal of their allegiance and a mandate for future activity.

The objective of this annual effort is the enrollment of all adults under the banner of the Red Cross. Being democratic it enlists the support of all classes. With yearly membership fees ranging as low as $1.00, the personal participation of the great mass of our people can be expected. Experience indicates that attainment of this goal is limited only by the type of community leadership developed and the number of people actually reached with a personal request to join.

Membership in the Red Cross means more than the giving of money. The voluntary personal support which is a part of its tradition is of more value to this humanitarian movement than any number of dollars and cents. It furnishes the motive power of the organization. The handling of such gigantic and spectacular projects as the Mississippi valley flood relief and more recently the distribution of Government wheat and cotton was made possible by that personal service of neighbor to neighbor, the work of the volunteers who daily carry on the local activities of the Red Cross.

These organized efforts on behalf of suffering humanity are notable not only for the timely assistance rendered those in need. The hundred of thousands of loyal volunteers find that giving themselves in a common purpose molds their minds and characters and develops a social viewpoint. In giving organized expression to human sympathy, the Red Cross perpetuates that spirit of devotion and service which characterized its war-time membership.

If you had planned to have Baked Ham for Sunday dinner, it would be well to change to poultry or lamb. Fresh and cured pork continue to rise in price, while fresh chickens and moderate lamb is of excellent quality and also moderately priced.

There are many good values in fresh vegetables. Corn, peas, lettuce, tomatoes, and egg-plant are low priced. Fine cauliflower and green lima beans are coming to market. Potatoes of exceptional quality are selling at the lowest price in many weeks.

Many fruits tempt the appetite and price—seedless grapes, apples, Malaga, Bartlett pears, oranges, bananas and peaches. Then there are cantaloupe, honeydews, honeyballs, Persian and Casaba melons—it is difficult to make a choice.

Eggs, butter and cheese prices remain about the same. Fish is to be had in great variety at attractive prices.

congressional library wants to keep the constitution and the declaration.

There are no windows in the stackrooms, so that one of the inner walls is the biggest surface of unbroken brick in the world. It resembles a section of the Boulder Dam. Everybody rushed over to see it the other morning, after the earthquake, but couldn't find any cracks.

The building cost $12,000,000. Outside it looks like a Greek temple honoring Clio, the Goddess of History. Inside it looks efficient as all get-out, despite a lot of liver-colored marble and fluted bronze columns.

There is a swanky movie theater, and giant refrigerator in which to keep historic films. There are reading rooms with cork floors and pneumatic tubes to send down orders for books.

The vast storage chambers are fire, sun, vermin, air, dust and burglar proof. One of the biggest air conditioning plants ever built is in the cellar while upstairs in the head office an insignificant appearing lever locks all the doors.

Most interesting place of all perhaps is the preparation room, where documents are rid of bookworms, if any, and treated for permanence. Tomes so dry they are about to fall to dust are moistened, while those so wet they're mildewed are dried.

Pages are impregnated with a transparent substance thinner than celophane to dry thumb prints, while others are too precious to be touched at all are reproduced by a gigantic camera in which the government invested $4,000. It takes pictures, develops dries and delivers them, without benefit of human hand, one every 26 seconds.

The man who was putting a final polish on it said it was the last word, and worthy of this motto, graven in granite by the front door: "The heritage of the past is the seed that brings forth the harvest of the future."

Hollywood Star-Lites

By Chuck Cochard

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 11.—The horse-racing fever has really seized the film city during the past week with the approach of the Santa Anita opening (new racing plant a few miles from the center of Los Angeles).

The town has become so horsey that even staid old grandmothers are talking in the vernacular of the race track.

When the Santa Anita track opens for its second season it will find that its patrons, both spectators and owners of thoroughbreds are comprised largely of Hollywood's most famous citizenry. For the nonce Bing Crosby's newspaper prominence will be transferred from the drama department to the sports pages.

The Paramount crooner, be it known, has acquired a formidable string of horses during the past year, thus joining the company of Al Jolson, Clark Gable, James Gleason, Constance Bennett, and Joe E. Brown, to mention only a few of the film notables who have taken up the sport of kings.

In the cast of Wendy Barrie and her now boy friend, Louis Hayward, young friend, the lad for horses has proved an aid to romance. They have just announced the mutual purchase of "Triuno," a 3-year-old.

DO YOU KNOW: That the Marx Brothers met a vaudeville actor in Los Angeles in 1913 and urged him to accept a $100 a week film job that had been offered to him—he was Charlie Chaplin?

ON THE SET: It was a daily custom of Florene Ziegfeld to present every one of his glorified show girls with some little token every day—candy, flowers, etc.

Not to be outdone, William Powell, who appears as "Ziggy" in "The Great Ziegfeld", treats the girls daily—promptly at 4 o'clock. Sometimes it's soft drinks, sometimes ice cream, sometimes candy. Adolphe Menjou and Verne Teasdale are able to hold hands in their adjoining hospital cots.

Watch out for a marriage between Erik Rhodes and Katherine DeMille . . . Wedding bells loom for Glenda Farrell and Addison Randy. Women have never fully realized how becoming sun-tan complexions can be. They are equally flattering to blondes as well as brunettes.

The sun-tan promised to improve women's health for various reasons," Dawn went on. "With the figure problem solved by sensible living and exercise, diets will be out—ninth-tenths of the prevalent ailments today can be traced directly back to unwise dieting!"

"Natural beauty is slated to be the next cycle for women," Dawn continued. "In a few years hence society will find little room for what is now known as the 'nothouse flower'.

Women have never fully realized how becoming sun-tan complexions can be. They are equally flattering to blondes as well as brunettes.

INSIDE GOSSIP: Last week's up-and-coming male star from Broadway was Brian Aherne, and the famous actress with whom he was keeping noon hour dates was Marlene Dietrich. The famous star of the silent screen who still keeps Miss Dietrich's portable dressing room filled (daily) with flowers—despite the fact of these noon hour recesses—was John Gilbert.

What famous stage, screen and radio Greek comedian and blonde comedy actress are going around Hollywood as though they've been plucked by Cupid. That's all for today. Wait till next week.

President Roosevelt will be given a 1250-pound Wisconsin cheese Thursday as a feature of the national program for "cheese week." The cheese, a cheddar, will be drawn by six white horses through the streets of Washington in a ceremony duplicating presentation of the first cheese made in America to Thomas Jefferson in 1802.

PREPARE FOR WINTER
Winter has been a long time coming this season and yet there are many who are not prepared for it. A Moore's Air Tight Heater is the first requisite for comfortable living quarters. From present indications a sudden drop in temperature is coming. Our men are on the job ready to deliver and install any one of three models of this wonderful heater. Old heaters accepted as part pay—plenty of time on balance.

FORE RUNNERS

Just want to say in advance that our stock of Christmas furniture novelties will be excellent in appearance and modest in price. Furniture gifts are usually sensible gifts. Christmas spending this season will doubtless be governed more largely by common sense than at any time in the past. Furniture gifts are lasting. They give service and remind recipients of the giver daily.

ELEVATOR FIRM LEASES
WAREHOUSE FOR WINTER

The Southeast Missouri Elevator Company will operate at McMullin this winter in a Scott County Milling Company Warehouse, it was announced Thursday. The elevator concern's warehouse burned to the ground Saturday night after it was ignited by lightning.

The company leased the Scott County structure at McMullin because construction of a new building would not be easily accomplished during the winter months. According to present plans, a new warehouse will be built in the spring and completed in time for storage of the new wheat crop. The concrete elevator, which stood in the center of the burned warehouse, may be used after it is repaired. An adjustment has been effected with the company that carried insurance on the building.

L. O. O. F. DEGREE CONFERRED
ON THREE CANDIDATES

Jack Patrick, who was shot in the right thigh Hallowe'en night by John Gray of St. James, suffered gunshot wounds again Monday while he was hunting rabbits with Mutt Burns. According to friends, Burns accidentally fired through a sewer while Patrick bent at the other end, beating with a stick in an attempt to force rabbit to run toward his companion. Burns' wounds were superficial, several small shots lodging in his arm. He was treated by Dr. G. W. Presnell.

According to present plans, a class of candidates will receive degrees at a meeting here November 26. H. H. Wiggins of Joliet, grandmaster of the lodge, and Ben Wiedel of St. Louis, grand secretary, will be invited to attend. Members expect the meeting to be a preparatory session for prospective members as well. Wives of the men will be present and refreshments will be served.

A. M. Curtis, Republican State chairman located at Springfield, Mo., informs us through the press that the WPA working force in the division headquarters in composed of six hundred Democrats and six Republicans. That is all we want to know. These six Republicans should be weeded out of the political patch and put on six more deserving Democrats.

Wonder Mr. Curtis doesn't say something about the State Highway Department, where eight out of the ten Division Engineers are Republicans and two Democrats, and this under a Democratic State administration.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 12 -- First month collections under Missouri's increased sales tax totaled $829,545, State Auditor Forrest Smith announced today. In addition, Smith said, about $50,000 was paid under protest.

The revenue is from a 1 per cent tax on most retail sales and services for the month of September under a levy which went into effect August 27.

Smith and G. H. Bates head of the sales tax division in the Auditor's department, expressed gratification with the collection.

If September would be taken as an average month, the annual revenue from the new law, which replaced the one-half of per cent merchant-absorbed levy, would be about $10,500,000.

ROUTES 60 AND 61 RALLY TO BE HELD IN AMARILLO

AMARILLO, Tex., Nov. 14.—A huge inter-states highway rally, composed of boosters of U. S. Highways 66 and 60 from cities in Missouri west to the Pacific coast will be held in Amarillo, Texas, Monday, December 9.

In addition, the National U. S. Highway 66 Association will hold its annual convention in Amarillo on the same date. It is probable that members of the National U. S. Highway 60 Association will call a semi-annual parley for the same occasion.

"Complete U. S. 66 and U. S. 60 by 1937" will be the slogan of the mass meeting which is being sponsored by the highway committee of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce of which T. E. Johnson is chairman.

Intensive interest is being manifested in the forthcoming road-booster session. Altho announcement of the plan was made less than two weeks ago hundreds of letters have been received at the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce from good roads enthusiasts from the various states served by the two transcontinental highways.

Purpose of the inter-states gathering is to perfect plans in accordance with the Federal Bureau of Public Roads' policy to close unpaved gaps in all transcontinental federal designated highways as quickly as possible.

Highways 66 and 60, recognized throughout the country as two of the most important coast-to-coast routes, still have many unpaved gaps. This situation results in the loss to cities along these highways millions in revenue from tourists and commercial traffic.

Several distinguished speakers have been invited to attend the rally, which is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m., continuing through the evening of December 9.

Word has been received here that booster delegations are now being organized at Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Miami and Bartlesville, Okla.; Tucumcari, Albuquerque and Santa Fe, N. M., and at Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz.

"The Nations at War Again"

By Elder John B. Huffman

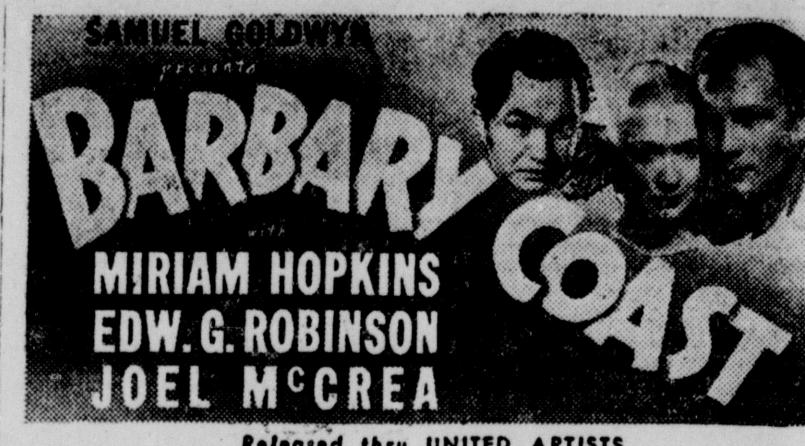

Elder John B. Huffman announced two weeks ago that he had closed his Bible lectures on the streets of Sikeston—and he says he meant it. But so many important events are developing and shaping, resulting in the rapid fulfillment of more Bible prophecy, that he has decided to make one of the most important lectures of the 1935 series next Saturday afternoon on the streets of Sikeston, in the little park in front of Sterling's store, the subject being "What Is Happening and Will Happen in the Time of the End". He says he does not mean the end of the world by any means, but the end of the age.

This is very necessary that Bible students and everyone interested in latter day prophecy, whether saint or sinner, should hear this lecture. This will show the evils of the times, the revival of the Roman Empire, the part of Europe in the war that will finally culminate, and the rise of the Beast and the False prophet just before the Second Coming of Christ, says Elder Huffman.

Prophecy, as foretold in the Bible, is fulfilling at a rapid rate. People of all classes are sitting up and listening and wondering about the condition of the world in relation to the scriptures, he says.

Saturday afternoon, commencing at 2 p. m. in front of Sterling's store, Sikeston, Mo.

A landslide on Mount Peruna, near Tegucigalpa, Honduras, completely buried the village of Ceibita and its several scores of inhabitants.

THE FLYING CLOUD

A sprawling, brawling, turbulent settlement of tents and rude shacks; its main streets lined with gambling dives and dance halls, deep in slimy mud and deeper yet in sin and crime—that was Barbary Coast—San Francisco, in the early days of the Gold-Rush—before the Vigilantes rose in protest, defying the law in order to establish the law.

Later a noble and great city was to rise above the sand dunes lining the peninsula; it was to rise on the basis of commerce and industry. But in the early days gold-seekers from nearby hills—was the basis for San Francisco's sudden notoriety. It existed to serve the primitive needs of the prospectors, and also to serve their equally primitive passions.

The prospectors would come stumbling in from the adjoining hills, their packbags filled with precious gold. Starved for human society, craving excitement after the long, weary months of solitary labor, possessing small fortunes in gold dust, they were easy prey for the parasites who infested the town. They were quickly robbed or cheated of their fortunes. Victims who protested were found dead in the streets, and their gold in their backs. Their murderers went about boasting and unmolested. The administration of law and order, under the notorious Judge Harper, was a pure farce. Gamblers controlled the town and the town officials.

To this crude, lawless sea-port town on a New Year's Eve came the clipper ship "Flying Cloud," poking through the fog into the Golden Gate, after 211 days out of New York, and 14 days of blind beating along the coast.

At long last an answer came from out of the void. Eagerly passengers and crew lined the rails, to exchange conversation with the pilot, to learn in advance all about the gold country.

said, looking curiously at the nervous faces around her. "Mr. Morgan wrote me if he wasn't here some one would be here to take me to the Homestead Gully. Does anyone know where it is?"

A prospector gulped and finally answered:

"Well, you see, Miss, Homestead Gully has been taken off the map."

"Then," Miss Rutledge inquired, "can you tell me where I can find Mr. Morgan?"

"Miss, I hate to be the one to break the news—but Dan Morgan has been taken off the map likewise."

And from the sympathetic miner Miss Rutledge learned that her fiance, whom she had traveled thousands of miles to meet, was dead—was buried.

"My poor child," he exclaimed.

Miss Rutledge smiled wryly. "It seems my first claim hasn't panned out so well."

"You don't fool me, Miss Rutledge. You're hurt. Please let me help you."

"You don't understand. Colonel I never loved Dan Morgan!"

Cobb was horrified.

"But—you were going to marry him! He must have meant something to you."

"He meant," said Miss Rutledge harshly, "a million dollars."

Cobb turned away, shocked. But Miss Rutledge regained her cold self-possession. She turned to the miners, still smiling her tight, inscrutable smile.

"Gentlemen," she asked, "who got Dan Morgan's money?"

"Happy New Year

With Cobb still hovering anxiously by her side, and accompanied by a veritable parade of prospectors and wharf loungers, Miss Rutledge made her way through the muddy streets that led to the Bella Donna. On either side, the nature of the settlement unfolded itself—gambling dives, dance halls, with blowsy Indian, Mexican, and Chinese women drinking, staring out of doors and windows.

Word of their coming had preceded them at the Bella Donna. Men leaped up from the gambling tables as they approached. Chairs were overturned. Cries arose.

"There she is! There she is! A new white woman!"

Within three minutes Miss Rutledge had received five offers of marriage. The whole crowd moved away, however, when Chamalis approached and introduced himself. A dangerous man.

"How do you like San Francisco?" he asked.

"I think I'm going to like it very much," Miss Rutledge answered, smiling oddly.

"That's fine," Chamalis said. "I own it."

"Miss Rutledge is leaving soon," Cobb interrupted nervously.

"Is that true?" Chamalis demanded.

"That depends," Miss Rutledge declared, still smiling, "on how well I like your town."

Cobb rose in his chair.

"Miss Rutledge, I beg you to reconsider."

Chamalis dismissed him coldly.

"Good night, sir. Hope we see you around here often."

Cobb bowed stiffly, and turned to go. Miss Rutledge called after him softly:

"Good night, Colonel Cobb—and thank you."

Chamalis and Miss Rutledge were left alone at the table. The waiter approached and filled their cups with wine. Suddenly shots rang out. The piano player stopped his jangling tune. There was a moment of dead silence. Then a voice cried out: "Happy New Year! . . . Yippee!" and the place rang out with boisterous cries. The piano player struck up "Auld Lang Syne." A drunk wept audibly.

Miss Rutledge raised her glass, and looked straight at Chamalis.

"Happy New Year!"

TO ARGUE DEMURRS AGAINST QUO WARRANTO

Judge Frank Kelly will hear arguments today on demurrers filed in the circuit court Monday by the three companies named as defendants in the city's quo warranto suit, brought in an effort to oust the Missouri Utilities. The defendants are the utilities, the Community Power & Light Company of Deleware, and the Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis.

Roger A. Bailey, attorney for the city in its long fight to be rid of the utilities, filed a quo warranto action in July. A hearing on it was temporarily halted by the power concern, holder of the utilities' first mortgage bonds of $2,185,000, which filed in federal court a motion for a restraining order to stop the suit. Attorneys for the utilities later filed a demurser, and after a hearing Judge Kelly granted the city until October 1 to file an amended petition.

Mr. Bailey alleges in his petition that the utilities lacks a right to operate here because it has no franchise other than a grant of December 16, 1902, which has long since expired.

The power company was named a defendant in the amended petition because of its interest in the utilities. The bank was included as corporate trustees.

FAN FARE' AFTER FOOTBALL

Win or lose, football fans must eat, and scores won't hurt their appetites one bit. So if you yearn to play the hostess to a jolly crowd of huge, appreciative appetites, plan a supper after the game for entertainment. It's the kind of a party that almost "gives itself", as far as effort to entertain the guests is concerned. Jollity is the natural reaction after outdoor air and high excitement of the game. Football atmosphere also gives you an opportunity to plan a unique table setting and clever refreshments, for this is a scheme which isn't so common, and there's plenty of room for innovations and experiment. That means fun!

The supper type of food is best after the game. It has a heartiness and informality which usually fits in better with the keen hunger inspired by outdoor air, and the usual plan of a football crowd to go somewhere to dance after the game.

This can be accomplished even when the hostess attends the game herself, by planning refreshments which can be made ready before the game and served within a few minutes after the crowd has arrived at the house. Of course, the refrigerator is crammed full of relish fare all afternoon, as early prepared as it possibly can for immediate serving. The dessert is probably a frozen one, and is stored away in the freezing tray. The salad may be chilled and the pickles, radishes, and avocados gaining a nice crispness in the cold food compartment. Easy to prepare for such a supper is the hot turkey or chicken sandwich, the meat for which is waiting all day in the refrigerator. It is a matter of moments to reheat a sandwich which has already been made and to put back in the oven for a few minutes a baking pan full of rosy apples which have been baked in the forenoon. An easy menu would be hot sandwiches with assorted relishes and pickles, baked apples, molded au-marin salad, spiced cider, home-baked chocolate ice cream garnished with miniature chocolate balls.

Two ways to get the football to the refreshments picture prominently is by way of doughnuts and baked potatoes. Football-shaped doughnuts may be iced in white or chocolate frosting to represent the seams and laces on a pigskin. A large, evenly-baked Idaho baked potato can be made to resemble a football in the same way. On its brown jacket outline the seams and designate the opening in an unlace football with anchovy paste or cream cheese squeezed through a pastry tube. The design may coincide with a split in the potato thru which the meat interior has been taken out, seasoned, and worked with cream, melted cheese, and paprika, and then returned to the shell. Both football potatoe sand football doughnuts will lend an authentic character to the gridiron supper table.

Attractive Closets

Make bedroom closets more attractive by painting the interiors a color which will contrast with the main color in the bedroom. With a bedroom in which blue-green predominates use a warm rust tone. Paint the inside of the closet door the same rust tone and it will add an interesting color change to the bedroom when the closet door is opened.

Finish all accessories to match. Shoe racks, shelves, cupboards, etc. Enamel plain wooden hangers. The smooth surface makes it easier to slip garments on and off the hangers.

Insulating Materials

When choosing a material for insulating the house, check for the following requirements:

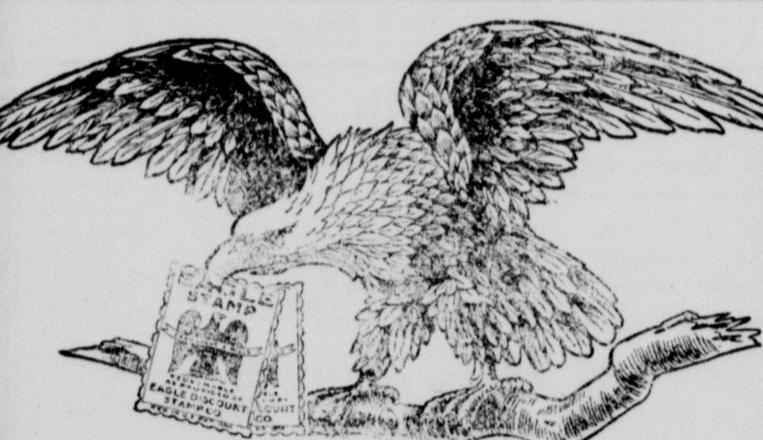

1. Durability.
2. Vermin proof.
3. Moisture proof.
4. Mechanical strength.
5. Nonodorous.

The final choice, after all these requirements have been met, will depend on the cost and place the material is to be used.

2-YEAR PROGRAM PLANNED
New Adjustment Plans for Corn-Hog Producers Announced

A two-year adjustment program for corn and hog producers has been officially announced by Secretary of Agriculture, Henry A. Wallace. A new program was decided upon in view of the facts brought out in the investigation which is required before the inauguration of a new adjustment program and in view of the favorable vote in the recent national referendum among all corn and hog producers.

The extent of adjustments to be required, the amount of adjustment payments, and other fundamentals and details of a new contract will be determined some time after the conference of farmers, state agricultural specialists, and Adjustment Administration officials which was held in Washington last week. It is hoped that administrative approval of a new contract may be announced within 30 days after the close of the conference.

Since a major adjustment problem is to prevent an excessive production of hogs in 1937, a contract of more than one year's duration is essential, Administration officials said. They are of the opinion that farmers will welcome a two-year contract in order that they may know what adjustments will be required and thus plan their farming operations over a longer period of time. Likewise it is pointed out that a longer program would be more economical from an administrative standpoint.

The Adjustment Administration has recommended that corn production next year be limited to 95 million acres, or about 10 million acres less than would be likely to be harvested without adjustment. This would require an aggregate adjustment of approximately 20 per cent on the part of all contract signers. Depending upon the 1936 corn crop and the demand expected next fall for the 1937 crop, it has been proposed that the maximum aggregate corn reduction for 1937 be placed at 25 per cent. During the period covered by the contract, it is expected that individual producers will be allowed to retire an acreage of corn within a minimum and maximum percentage range, as in 1935.

ALMOST HALF FINISHED

The first result of improved agricultural machinery was larger farms and large machinery. But now the trend is towards adapting mechanical equipment to the small farm. The one-plow tractor and the small combine harvester are examples.

New machinery and improvement of present day machinery," says Mr. McCrory, "probably will continue to make changes in locations where crops can be most profitably grown and even in the kind of crops produced."

Twenty days have been spent on the project, which had a list of thirty-two employees on the last working day of the pay period.

Changes in the agricultural map of the United States, especially in the last half century, are easily evident. But the part that machinery has had in these changes is not so well known, says S. H. McCrory, Chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Wheat lands considered as unprofitable 30 years ago have become profitable thru low cost production—largely because of the development of tractors and combines. Since 1915 there has been a general decline in wheat acreage east of the Mississippi, but the acreage has increased in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, North Dakota and Montana. The Central Great Plains is more completely suited to extensive livestock farming because development of the combine led to the breeding of a dwarf grain sorghum—a low-cost grain when harvested with a combine. SPEED TRAP PRACTICE
IS DECLARED ILLEGAL

The practice of dividing bond forfeitures taken from motorists arrested for alleged speed regulations violations, by which Carondelet township has gained a reputation of maintaining a speed trap is illegal. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Wolfe of St. Louis county told constables and justices at a meeting in St. Louis this week that the procedure they have been operating under violates the state constitution, he said.

Civic club members, who attended the meeting, showed documents proving that trade is being driven from St. Louis because of tolerance of the trap. Wolfe replied to Constable Doran of Carondelet, who said the arrests were made in the interest of safety, by remarking that the volume of protests indicated deputies were stopping travelers on grounds not justified by the "grounds of safety" allegations.

Wolfe told of the illegality of their practice after he learned from deputies that the numerous $8.20's taken as bonds were divided between the deputy making the arrest, the justice, and the school fund.

Wolfe added that the prosecuting attorney's office can refuse to issue informations on traffic arrests made by deputies and leave the job of patrolling highways entirely under the jurisdiction of the state highway patrol.

Another meeting was to be held to consider forming a code for making traffic arrests that will be legal as well as acceptable to the prosecuting attorney.

Imported Steel for PWA
Bridge Job in New York

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Administrator Ickes charged today that the PWA authority of New York City's $42,500,000 tri-borough bridge project was directly responsible for purchasing German steel for the development instead of domestic materials.

Ickes said Nathan Burkan, authority chairman, was seeking "to pass the buik" to PWA because of protests from the steel industry.

"PWA has no power authority or right to force the bridge authority to use domestic steel," Ickes said.

Ickes said German steel had been used also for the Morehead City Ocean Terminal in North Carolina. He said German prices were 52 per cent less there, and asserted that "all American bids were identical."

Numerous reports of eagles being shot and mounted for display purposes have reached the Game and Fish Department. Under the state regulations the eagle is classified as non-game but no open season is provided. The federal laws as well protect the eagle and it is unlawful to kill the bird which is used on national emblems and many coins.

THE
EDITOR
SAYS—

An another thing that Sikeston can brag about is that we have a man in Bill Malone that has such a keen eye that he can see a bullet coming his way, close his eye just in time for the bullet to barely miss putting his eye out. If you don't believe it read the story in the last issue of The Standard. This bullet might have been fired by one of the slow-shots that we see in the movies.

Mrs. Louis McCutchen, of Campbell, Missouri, and her sister, Mrs. Corder, of Malden, were Sikeston visitors Tuesday. It was the pleasure of the editor to meet these ladies.

The headline said "Big Democratic Vote". The story explained Joseph Raggio, Philadelphia, squeezed through his front door and voted Tuesday, the first time in 15 years. Raggio weighs 667 pounds and is 6 feet 6 inches tall.

The Federal Government is asking bids on rouge, eyebrow pencils, cold cream and powder puffs. WPA officials said the cosmetics are to be used by needy actors and actresses in plays to be presented in CCC camps and community centers. Ain't that swell.

From London comes word that there are two million more women in the British Isles eligible to vote than there are men. We suggest polygamy for the British in order the extra women can claim an interest in a man.

According to a letter before me I am appointed as a co-chairman to raise funds for a Will Rogers memorial to be erected somewhere away from Sikeston. This is fine. We never missed a Will Rogers picture and Will will never miss the contribution that we are not going to give. If there are any one in this community who cannot find some needy one at home and alive to give their contribution to, and they prefer to send it to New York headquarters they can bring it to this office and we'll send it on.

This Fall season has been one that was a God send to those without work without fuel, and without sufficient food. No cold weather that caused suffering. It has been rather disappointing to cotton farmers as pickers could hardly get into the fields, and with the short crop all were anxious to get the cotton out while it was of good color. Not being a farmer we have an idea the open weather with numerous showers has given the wheat a good start that will soon give pasture for stock. Lets hope for the best and try to live within our means.

Congratulations to Judge Geo. H. Moore, federal judge of St. Louis, for fining a New York lawyer for contempt of court in a recent case before him. Also, congratulations for criticizing the arrangements in his rooms in the new federal building. Ordinarily plans for the quarters of a federal judge are usually submitted for his approval, but in this case evidently they were not. Through the custodian of the building changes can be made to suit the convenience of judge, jury and witnesses.

The Tuesday edition of The Standard will carry a story from the Dexter Statesman showing an unholy alliance between Kip Briney and his Democratic following and Charlie Pather, a self-confessed criminal and Republican leader in Stoddard County, which means that Stoddard will likely be lost to the Democrats in the next election.

Rumors have been going the rounds for some weeks that the Sikeston branch of the International Shoe Factory would close down. So far as The Standard could ascertain there is not a thing to the rumor. Considerable work in the way of changing the interior to make more room probably caused the rumor.

The Standard has a great number of small accounts owing that our collector is trying to close up in order that our books may be straightened up. In future no accounts will run over thirty days as it takes money to make the mare go, pay the hands Saturday night, buy white paper and many other necessities.

The owner of the pecan grove near Diehlstadt would like for the Sikeston folks who were to gather nuts on the shares to remember that they drove off without divining what they had gathered. This is the sort of thing that makes people in the country dislike to have town people come to their places.

The signed statements of eye witnesses to the two auto wrecks south of Sikeston in which persons were killed have been placed in the hands of county officers of New Madrid County for investigation and prosecution if the cases warrant. Liquor and lack of precaution killed two women.

Scott County Relief Work Curtailed For Lack of Funds

This report, written by A. H. Harrison, special representative of the Missouri Relief Commission's ninth district, was released for newspapers Tuesday.

With Federal Funds for direct relief completely withdrawn from the rural sections of Missouri, the actual operations of the Scott County Relief Office has been confined to the most distressed and needy cases, with pronounced realization that the funds available are not sufficient to meet the budgetary deficiency of the present existing case load. The present economic conditions, and the approaching winter necessities are causing a greater demand upon the staff. In fact, far greater than its physical or financial limitations, will permit.

The following tables of statistical information indicates the financial activities of the Scott County Relief Office for the month of October, 1935, but does not disclose the distressing conditions still existing, or the untiring efforts expended by the staff of the Relief Office in meeting the daily demands of the unfortunate of Scott county.

In addition to the cash expenditure of $5,657.93 for direct relief, the following Federal Surplus Commodities were disbursed as supplemental aid in Scott county, upon which no monetary value is directly charged to the case load, but which represents a cash value in excess of $2,000.

Surplus Commodities — October 1935 Allocations

904 sacks of flour

60 cases of prunes

40 dozen glass jars

60 dozen jar caps

84 dozen jar rubbers

40 mattresses.

362 cases canned beef.

The expenditures shown in the above tables do not include administrative costs of salaries, travel, and miscellaneous expenses, which totals $610, or less than 8 per cent of the gross expenditure of $8,267.93 expended in Scott County for October, 1935, as shown in the following schedule:

Direct Relief Only $6,657.93

Surplus Commodities $2,000.00

Salaries, Travel, and Misc.

610.00

Gross Expenditure $8,267.93

The County Court appropriates approximately $150 per month toward the Relief Program for certain administrative expenses, such as office rent, postage, telephone, lights, heat, et cetera, for which a direct accounting is made to the court monthly.

It is imperative, with the limited funds available, that actual relief expenditures be administered in a most conservative manner in order to assist the greatest number of needy cases. The Scott County Relief Committee, as well as the staff of the Relief Office, desires the citizens of Scott County to become more familiar with the program, and earnestly solicits their support in intelligently administering relief to the needy residents according to regulations prescribed by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

TWO FOUND GUILTY, ONE IS ACQUITTED IN COURT

George A. Westrich, a young man who was arrested in Morley two months ago and jailed on a charge of robbing Alfred Bryant's cafe, was found guilty of larceny by a jury that heard his case in circuit court Wednesday. Jurors found Westrich not guilty of a burglary charge filed against him.

Westrich was arrested on suspicion, when he was found on the streets of Morley by a constable. Not long afterward, the officer learned he Bryant restaurant had been robbed of cigarettes, candy, and miscellaneous articles. These were found in Westrich's car, in which Mrs. Westrich was found sitting. Mrs. Westrich, who was charged jointly with her husband, was granted a severance this week and will be tried later. The two had been in jail since their arrests.

Since its organization, the junior chamber has consistently been active in sponsoring civic activity. It has already determined to contribute $100 for an armory building site if the yet unapproved project is passed; remunerated Sikeston home; and begun work on a new city directory. It is also the only civic group that contributed money for the state Christian Education convention held here last week.

In court Wednesday, 17-year-old Leroy Gibson was sentenced to two years for burglary and two for larceny of a Fornell's garage last summer. Gibson, who has been in jail three months, received the sentence on his fourth appearance in court on petty thievery charges. He will serve the terms at the Missouri training school for boys at Booneville.

Alford Mott of Tanner was found not guilty of forging a $5 check when his case was tried in circuit court Tuesday. Mott was arrested September 12 and accused of forging a check on A. J. Baugher. The check was made out on a First Security State Bank of Charleston blank and cashed at the J. S. Wallace store in August.

Starting poorly this season, the Kennett team was beaten 39 to 0 by the Cape Central Tigers but since then have had better success, holding Rector, Ark., scoreless and defeating Dexter. Four men in the Kennett line can run 100 yards in 10.3 or 10.4 seconds, and squad members frequently use end around plays to gain yardage.

Sikeston will be crippled again this week by the absence of these men who will probably be unable to play because of injuries: Bill Allen, Tanner, Putnam, Moore, Green, and Cotton.

The Bulldogs' next game will be on Saturday, November 21, at the First hearing ended in a mistrial. In August, Scott county jurors also failed to reach a decision and a second mistrial was ordered. The jury was expected to receive the case late Thursday.

Trials for Claude McGee, a defendant in the W. T. Carlton murder case, and for Dr. A. J. Decker, who is charged with manslaughter growing out of an alleged illegal operation, have been tentatively set for December 4. One of them will likely be held on that day. Hearings for John E. Manor and Ira Collins defendants in the murder case, have not been set.

OFFICER VISITS DAIRIES SUPPLYING CCC CAMPS

Mrs. O. L. Spencer, Benton, Chairman of the 1935 Christmas Seal Sale campaign, today announced the appointment of these persons who will aid her in the county-wide Christmas Seal Sale: Ed. Fuchs, Sikeston, Mrs. Arch Russell, Sikeston; Mrs. Will Engle, Benton; Mrs. V. Ragsdale, Illinois; Mrs. John Martin, Fornell; Mrs. Oliver Rigdon, Chaffee; Mrs. A. W. Aubuchon, Chaffee; Mrs. V. R. Mouser, Chaffee; Mrs. E. C. Graham, Blodgett; Mr. Bryan Dodd, Vanduser; Mr. Arthur Kiehne, Oran.

Alden Penny, who has been identified with the county tuberculosis work for some years, will serve as secretary and treasurer. Dr. U. P. Haw, county health officer, is also a member of the Board of Directors.

In an interview today, Mrs. Spencer said that for more than a quarter of a century, the National Tuberculosis Association and its two thousand affiliated units throughout the country have been waging war against tuberculosis, and it seems only fitting that Scott county should do its part. Although progress has been made in the fight against tuberculosis, it is still the greatest cause of death in this country between the ages of 15 and 45. One and one-half times as many young women as young men between the ages of 15 and 24 are victims. It causes an economic loss to the nation of nearly $1,600,000,000 each year.

BLODGETT HARVEST FESTE WILL BE HELD TONIGHT

The sixth annual harvest festival will be held at the Blodgett school this (Friday) evening.

The principal feature of the celebration will be the crowning of the harvest queen, whose name has not yet been announced. Ella Vessel, Emma Taylor, and Verrie James, sponsored by the three school literary societies, are the candidates.

The program will begin at 7:30 and will include numbers by the grammar school children; a sideshow arranged by the high school classes; a negro minstrel; a Cave of Death, sponsored by members of the junior class; and a radio broadcast feature. A live two-headed snake found recently in the Mississippi river will be displayed.

The district-wide WPA sewing room project will be started in four Southeast Missouri counties next week. C. L. Blanton, Jr., ninth district WPA director, announced yesterday.

The project will be under way in Pemiscot county on Monday; in New Madrid county Wednesday. Work in the remaining four counties of Mr. Blanton's district will be started the following week.

Funds for the project will be supplied by the sewing room for three months. Miss Agnes Boshert of Sikeston will be director of the sewing room, which will be started the following week.

According to witnesses, Boardman struck the Martin car when he tried to pass a Chevrolet pickup truck being driven north on the highway by G. A. Cathey of near Keweenaw. His escape from more serious injuries was considered fortunate since his 1929 Chevrolet coach was damaged beyond repair.

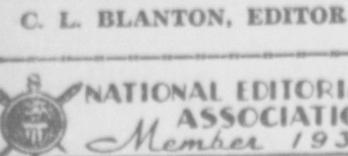

A second minor accident followed the first when Truett Honahan of Portageville, driving in Illinois car south on the highway, crashed into Walter Ancell's automobile and the Albritton ambulance after he had been flagged by patrolmen who helped clear the wreckage. Ancell's car was damaged.

Arden Ellise, who drove the ambulance to the scene of the wreck, brought Mrs. Martin and her daughter's body here, and after Mrs. Martin had been treated by Dr. Kendig she and the body were taken to Greensburg by John Albritton and Herbert Bandy.

They expected to arrive at their destination early Wednesday morning.

The accident ended the hopes of Miss Martin to reconcile to one another her parents, who were separated. At the time she was killed she and Mrs. Martin were on their way to San Diego, Calif., to visit her

One Ethiopian remedy is made of herbs ground up with the bodies of frogs. Surgical operations, such as cutting off a leg that cannot be cured, Dr. Martinie says, are often performed with hatchets, no chloroform, of course. The edges of a bad cut are pressed together and huge "warrior" ants are made to grip both sides of the cut with their pincers to hold the lips of the wound together. Then the ants' bodies are torn off and the pincers left for "surgical stitching." Hemorrhagers are stopped with boiling butter, which hurts, and the "sarcophagus" fly is put into a bullet wound to burrow its way in and look for the bullet. An Ethiopian patient needs a sound constitution. Powdered frogs and herbs are the favorite family remedy. We must not be too scornful of our Ethiopian fellow man for in the early middle ages remedies as strange and unbelievably stupid were used by European Christians, and, by the way, Jewish doctors, who already understood scientific medical treatment, were forbidden to treat Christians.—Arthur Brisbane.

NEW GASOLINE FEATURED IN STANDARD GAS

Standard Oil Company of Indiana has started a big advertising and sales campaign to introduce a new fast-warming gasoline, built for the winter season.

In more than 1,500 newspapers in 13 north central states, advertisements are telling the public about the new product. Radio billboards, station signs and banners, and leaflets are also heralding its qualities.

The advertising tells a story of a gasoline that will start any properly-operated and conditioned car instantly at any temperature down to 30 degrees below zero, and will in addition warm the engine up even under severe winter conditions so that it will pull smoothly in much shorter time than ever before.

Officials of the company declare that the new product represents as great an advance in motor fuel science as the new automobiles represent in their field.

KENNETT MEN TO PLAY ON TEAM THAT MEETS THE ST. LOUIS GUNNERS

Kennett, Mo., Nov. 14—This city is ready for the invasion of Poplar Bluff by the St. Louis Gunners, flashy professional grid eleven, booked to play in the Butler county city Sunday afternoon November 24, under auspices of the Poplar Bluff Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A survey of the Kennett football material discloses that a number of former gridmen of this community are anxious to play against the flashy St. Louis eleven. Larry Wilburn, Dobe Smith, Rich Wilburn, Johnny Wardlow, Leonor Watson, Bobbie Rodgers, Eddie McGhee, Russell Hemphill, Van Watson, Paul Hill and others are willing to take a crack at the invaders. They have signified their intention of playing from "five minutes to a full game."

The Dinklin Democrat, Kennett newspaper, commenting on the material says: "This group of Kennett grid material represents some of the flashiest and staunchest ever to perform in Southeast Missouri."

SEPTEMBER SHOWS BUILDING GAINS

Washington, D. C.—Permits issued throughout the country for residential construction during September 1935 were greater in number than those issued during any corresponding month since 1931, according to a report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Department of Labor.

In spite of a slight decline over the preceding month, total building permits issued in September 1935 showed an 88 per cent increase over a similar period a year ago.

Residential permits issued in September 1935 were 167.4 per cent greater in value than those issued in the same month of 1934, while the number of permits showed an increase of 176.7 per cent.

For Motorists to Remember

Automobile exhaust fumes have cost the lives of more than 500 persons each year for the past three years. That is a terrifying toll, but it is even worse when it is considered that almost all such deaths occur during the five or six months when motorists ride with cars tightly closed to shut out the cold weather.

With the approaching winter season comes the warning of auto associations advising motorists to: Have exhaust lines inspected for leaks.

Drive with windows partly open.

Stop occasionally on long trips and walk about in the fresh air.

Leave garage doors open until after the motor has been turned off.

This is merely a common-sense program, but it is one that must be remembered because there are no red lights or signs along the roads to remind you of it. —Chicago Herald-Examiner.

Washington Comment

About this season of the year in 1782, the United States and Great Britain were patching up their difficulties and putting the final touches on the business of getting rid of George the Third as ruler of this country. The Greeks do not seem to have a corresponding antipathy for Kings in general, and in particular for kings named George. They chose the month of November 1935 as the time for restoring the monarchy and seating their George again on the throne. A little more than a decade ago, he was deposed under the polite procedure which consists in being asked to resign. Presumably he is glad that he is no longer out of work, at if one may judge by his pictures, George is a keen young man and must be doing some thinking. During his stay in England, he may have read Walter Scott. As he jogs back to Greece and to his old job, a few lines from The Lady of the Lake may come to his mind:

Who o'er the herd would wish to reign,
Fantastic, fickle, fierce and vain.

Kings, by the way, are not the only ones who can stage a comeback. A while ago, pigs were as such bad reputations that the farmers were paid for putting them out of a society in which they were not wanted. New occasions make new duties, and now the Department of Agriculture is contemplating offering a bounty to hog-raisers. This is a good world after all, wherein even a pig has a chance.

In addition to other woes, China is having trouble with her currency. Too much silver has been slipping out of the land and the government has called it in, to be replaced by paper money, much as gold was impounded by the United States. The currency question is too intricate to be interesting, and is almost as delicate a subject as religion. Abandoning the relative merits of gold and silver standards to discussion by experts and partisans, it is to be observed that China's money troubles probably will blow over.

In an effort to solve the parking problem it has been suggested that the roofs of buildings in business areas be converted into parking areas; from which it appears that auto drivers of the future are likely to have their ups and downs.

W. P. A. WORKER IS GRATEFUL FOR HIS JOB

Dear Mr. Editor:

I don't suppose you would want to print what I have to say in your paper, because it always seems so crowded. But I feel so good tonight that somehow I just couldn't help writing and telling you about it and I thought that maybe others felt just the same as I and that maybe it would do some good to let people know how good everything seems. Cause I got a job.

I went to work today on the WPA job here and it sure seems fine to be on a payroll again. The wife and kids are all tickled and we had about the best meal to-night we have had for a long time.

The storekeeper was tickled, too.

You know it has been pretty hard going the last four or five years, not much work and not much prospects. We got along somehow but it has been tough sledding. Of course, if it hadn't been for the relief and the relief work we never could have made it. Our money and lots of other things that we had laid up when work and wages was good, was gone a long time ago. The wife and I have done lots of scheming to get along as well as we did but for the last two months we have been mighty discouraged. This WPA job don't pay nearly as much as I used to make but it is sure a whole lot better than nothing and I am mighty proud to get it. Some of the fellows on the job are kicking a little bit but don't think that they are not all glad to be there. And I was just wondering tonight what we would do this winter if this WPA job hadn't started. Lots of folks are saying that the government is spending too much money and that it is all going to have to be paid back. Well maybe they are and maybe it is, but I ain't worrying none about that. I used to worry about taxes but I haven't had to worry about any for quite awhile now and it looks like it is going to be quite a spell before I lose much sleep over taxes. What I have been wanting is a job and now I have got it and I know that somehow and sometime the bill will be paid. It just seems to me that every fellow who has been in my shape for the last few years would be mighty proud and thankful to President Roosevelt for giving us this chance to work. I remember when I used to take the daily paper I used to read about the government paying back lots of money to rich people and companies that had been paid in for taxes. It seems like some fellow in Washington figured out that they had paid too much and gave it back to them. That was back when a fellow named Mellon was running things. I thought that was kind of wrong but of course didn't say much about it because I kept hearing people say that he was a pretty smart duck. But now it seems that if he had kept the money that maybe the government wouldn't be so short of money now. I would rather see them spending the money fixing schools and building sidewalks and giving work to men who need it than handing it back to people who never missed it in the first place.

It is reported that the steamer ship Lusitania has been discovered on the ocean floor, off the southeast end of Ireland. She carried almost twelve hundred persons to their doom. The sinking is credited to a German U-boat, said to have been commanded by Capt. Schweiger. War is war and navy men are reputed to be hard-boiled, yet it is to be wondered whether Capt. Schweiger, if living, did not have a thoughtful if not uncomfortable hour or two after reading in the paper that the remains of the vessel had been found. He is twenty years older than he was when he looked through the periscope at the Lusitania. What happened immediately thereafter may not seem to him as glorious now as it did then. Of still more consequence is the fact that the friends and kin of twelve hundred will get no comfort from the news. There is a wealth of wisdom in the oft-repeated question: Why bring that up?

But maybe I shouldn't think like that, it might be unconstitutional. I heard a fellow in the barber shop the other day, he used to have some sort of a state job when Mr. Baker was Governor.

In an effort to solve the parking problem it has been suggested that the roofs of buildings in business areas be converted into parking areas; from which it appears that auto drivers of the future are likely to have their ups and downs.

One suggestion: Because this new Double-Quick gasoline does turn on full power in a cold engine so quickly, the use of a light

SCOTT COUNTY MEN TO TALK AT SOILS MEETING

The second annual soils and crops conference is going to be held at Benton on Tuesday, November 19, beginning at 10:00 A. M. in the Community building. M. J. Regan of the College of Agriculture will discuss pastures, while O. T. Coleman will give the soils discussion. One of the main features of the program will be short reports of Scott County farmers on how they have handled some of their problems and this is expected to be the most interesting portion of the program. Mr. Carl O. Luper is going to have the most interesting report ever made

The names of men who will have charge of WPA malaria control work in Missouri county, scheduled to begin Thursday, were released today by C. L. Blanton, Jr., ninth area WPA director.

James Brown of Charleston will be county supervisor for the project. Carl Jackson of East Prairie will be foreman and Henry Dodge of Charleston and Marvin Bryant of East Prairie, assistant foreman, for Parts 1 and 8; Oliver Goodin of Charleston, foreman, and J. W. Kirkpatrick and William Boone, both of Charleston, assistant foremen, for Part 2; and William A. Wyatt of Charleston, foreman for Parts 3 and 4.

Complete reports on the 1935 three-day open season on deer reveal that 98 legal deer were taken in fourteen Ozark counties. The return by counties follows: Gasconade, 26; Taney, 19; Dent, 13; Franklin, 10; Carter, 10; Crawford, 5; Ste. Genevieve, 6; Dunklin, 2; Wayne, 2; Osage, Ripley, Shannon, Oregon, and Reynolds, one each. It is believed that landowners, who are not required to possess a license to hunt deer on their lands, took a toll of at least 50 additional animals.

For many years Standard's research staff has been at work on this problem. Not satisfied with laboratory experiment alone, they have conducted thousands of road tests—in all sorts of temperatures—using all sorts of gasoline formulas.

And now they come forward with a motor fuel that is different, in many respects, from any that ever went into a gasoline tank before—a motor fuel which embodies all these newly discovered principles—which really is quick starting without the draw-

SOCIAL IMPLICATIONS OF THE ROLL CALL

By L. D. MacIntyre, Director of Roll Call, Midwestern Branch, American Red Cross, St. Louis.

In the minds of millions of Americans—from the humblest to the most outstanding citizen—the Roll Call of the Red Cross is a familiar term. However, for those who have grown up since that World War which witnessed the rebirth of the organization, an explanation may be needed. The term "Roll Call" refers to the annual solicitation of membership and funds for the continuation of chapter and national programs for the ensuing year. It can be said as truly today as it was in 1917, that through the Roll Call the American Red Cross submits its record to the people and seeks from them a renewal of their allegiance and a mandate for future activity.

The objective of this annual effort is the enrollment of all adults under the banner of the Red Cross. Being democratic it enlists the support of all classes. With yearly membership fees ranging as low as $1.00, the personal participation of the great mass of our people can be expected. Experience indicates that attainment of this goal is limited only by the type of community leadership developed and the number of people actually reached with a personal request to join.

WORLD'S LARGEST FILING CABINET HOLDS ARCHIVES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—The New Deal today opened the 12-ton bronze doors of the world's largest filing cabinet long enough to give us a look. It is a beauty, inside and out, and equipped with some of the fanciest anti-bug and burglar equipment ever.

The government calls its super filing case the National Archives Building, but it is nothing more than a safe deposit vault, with some ultra-ultra trimmings.

R. D. W. Connor, the archivist has his help looking over the government's historic documents now trying to decide which will be preserved. His 82 experts already have located enough to fill 314 miles of shelves and they've only begun to dig. They will start moving on documents by the ton this week.

There's room in the stacks for about 3,000,000,000 cubic feet of papers, from the fold-tasseled 1783 treaty of Paris, wherein the King recognized the independence of the United States, to the simple document Abraham Lincoln used to decree freedom for 3,000,000 slaves. There is a shrine for the Declaration of Independence and the constitution and 22 floors of shelf space for other data. The shrine remains empty because the congressional library wants to keep the constitution and the declaration.

There are no windows in the stackrooms, so that one of the inner walls is the biggest surface of unbroken brick in the world. It resembles a section of the Boulder Dam. Everybody rushed over to see it the other morning, after the earthquake, but couldn't find any cracks.

The building cost $12,000,000.

Outside it looks like a Greek temple honoring Clio, the Goddess of History. Inside it looks efficient as all get-out, despite a lot of liver-colored marble and fluted bronze columns.

There is a swanky movie theater, and giant refrigerator in which to keep historic films. There are reading rooms with cork floors and pneumatic tubes to send down orders for books.

The vast storage chambers are fire, sun, vermin, air dust and burglar proof. One of the biggest air conditioning plants ever built is in the cellar while upstairs in the head office an insignificant appearing lever locks all the doors.

Most interesting place of all perhaps is the preparation room, where documents are rid of bookworms, if any, and treated for permanence. Tomes so dry they are about to fall to dust are moistened, while those so wet they're mildewed are dried.

Pages are impregnated with a transparent substance thinner than cellophane to dry thumb prints, while others are too precious to be touched at all are reproduced by a gigantic camera in which the government invested $4,000. It takes pictures, develops, dries and delivers them, without benefit of human hand, one every 26 seconds.

The man who was putting a final polish on it said it was the last word, and worthy of this motto, graven in granite by the front door: "The heritage of the past is the seed that brings forth the harvest of the future."

SUNDAY DINNER
Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

If you had planned to have Baked Ham for Sunday dinner, it would be well to change to poultry or lamb. Fresh and cured pork continue to rise in price; broiling or frying chickens are moderate; lamb is of excellent quality and also moderately priced.

Vegetables are good values in fresh vegetables. Corn, parsnips, tomatoes, and egg-plant are low priced. Fine cauliflower and green lima beans are coming to market. Potatoes of exceptional quality are selling at the lowest price in many weeks.

Many fruits tempt the appetite and prices are reasonable. Red Malanga, Bartlett pears, oranges, bananas and peaches. Then there are cantaloupe, honeydews, honeyballs, Persian and Casaba melons—it is difficult to make a choice.

Egg, butter and cheese prices remain about the same. Fish is to be had in great variety at attractive prices.

Following are three Sunday dinner menus at different budget levels, planned to use seasonable foods.

Winter has been a long time coming this season and yet there are many who are not prepared for it. A Moore's Air Tight Heater is the first requisite for comfortable living quarters. TWO DRIVES IN CAPE TO BE PAVED BY WPA

The Alta Vista drive and the terrace drive in Oliver Heights at Cape Girardeau will be paved by men working under a WPA project, according to C. L. Blanton, Jr., ninth area WPA director.

Today a crew of fifty laborers under the supervision of Ralph Beatty and E. M. Vaughn will begin constructing curb and guttering and a gravel street base, preparatory to laying a concrete surface on the two drives.

The work, which will require four months, will be completed with a government grant of $11,590 and a city contribution of $1,280.95. Cecil Rhodes will be time-keeper, and three carpenters will also be employed.

ELEVATOR FIRM LEASES WAREHOUSE FOR WINTER

The Southeast Missouri Elevator Company will operate at McMullin this winter in a Scott County Milling Company Warehouse, it was announced Thursday. The elevator concern's warehouse burned to the ground Saturday night after it was ignited by lightning.

The company leased the Scott County structure at McMullin because construction of a new building would not be easily accomplished during the winter months. According to present plans, a new warehouse will be built in the spring and completed in time for storage of the new wheat crop. The concrete elevator, which stood in the center of the burned warehouse, may be used after it is repaired. An adjustment has been effected with the company that carried insurance on the building.

Jack Patrick, who was shot in the right thigh Hallowe'en night by John Gray of St. James, suffered gunshot wounds again Monday while he was hunting rabbits with Mutt Burns. According to friends, Burns accidentally fired through a sewer while Patrick beat at the other end, beating with a stick in an attempt to force rabbit to run toward his companion. Patrick's wounds were superficial, several small shots lodging in his arm. He was treated by Dr. G. W. Presnell.

LEX FRANCIS TO PLAY AT THANKSGIVING DANCE

Lex Francis and his ten-piece orchestra have been engaged to play for the Lions club Thanksgiving night dance for the benefit of underprivileged children. M. M. Beck said this week.

Francis, formerly of Bonne Terre, has developed one of the best dance bands in this district, and as recently as Hallowe'en pleased Poplar Bluffians with his music at a dance held in the Butler county town. His performances will be supplemented with novelties, and his group will be dressed in new uniform jackets.

Funds secured will be added to the Lions club Christmas fund, with which candies, fruits, and toys will be bought for distribution December 25.

The second degree was conferred on Marvin Carroll, Theodore Kelly and Vernon Kelly at a regular meeting of the L.O.O.F. chapter held Tuesday night. Four additional men are now eligible for an initiatory degree, and members are considering applications of five more.

According to present plans, a class of candidates will receive degrees at a meeting here November 28. H. H. Members expect the meeting to be a preparatory session for prospective members as well. Wives of the men will be present and refreshments will be served.

Wonder Mr. Curtis doesn't say something about the State Highway Department, where eight out of the ten Division Engineers are Republicans and two Democrats, and this under a Democratic State administration.

If September would be taken as an average month, the annual revenue from the new law, which replaced the one-half of per cent merchant-absorbed levy, would be about $10,500,000.

ROUTES 60 AND 61 RALLY
TO BE HELD IN AMARILLO

AMARILLO, Tex., Nov. 14.—A huge inter-states highway rally, composed of boosters of U. S. Highways 66 and 60 from cities in Missouri west to the Pacific coast will be held in Amarillo, Texas, Monday, December 9.

In addition, the National U. S. Highway 66 Association will hold its annual convention in Amarillo on the same date. It is probable that members of the National U. S. Highway 60 Association will call a semi-annual parley for the same occasion.

"Complete U. S. 66 and U. S. 60 by 1937" will be the slogan of the mass meeting which is being sponsored by the highway committee of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce of which T. E. Johnson is chairman.

Intensive interest is being manifested in the forthcoming road-booster session. Altho announcement of the plan was made less than two weeks ago hundreds of letters have been received at the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce from good roads enthusiasts from the various states served by the two transcontinental highways.

Purpose of the inter-states gathering is to perfect plans in accordance with the Federal Bureau of Public Roads' policy to close unpaved gaps in all transcontinental federal designated highways as quickly as possible.

Highways 66 and 60, recognized throughout the country as two of the most important coast-to-coast routes, still have many unpaved gaps. This situation results in the loss to cities along these highways millions in revenue from tourists and commercial traffic.

Several distinguished speakers have been invited to attend the rally, which is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m., continuing through the evening of December 9.

that booster delegations are now being organized at Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Miami and Bartlesville, Okla.; Tucumcari, Albuquerque and Santa Fe, N. M., and at Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz.

"The Nations at War Again"

By Elder John B. Huffman

Elder John B. Huffman announced two weeks ago that he had closed his Bible lectures on the streets of Sikeston—and he says he meant it. But so many important events are developing and shaping, resulting in the rapid fulfillment of more Bible prophecy, that he has decided to make one of the most important lectures of the 1935 series next Saturday afternoon on the streets of Sikeston, in the little park in front of Sterling's store, the subject being "What Is Happening and Will Happen in the Time of the End". He says he does not mean the end of the world by any means, but the end of the age.

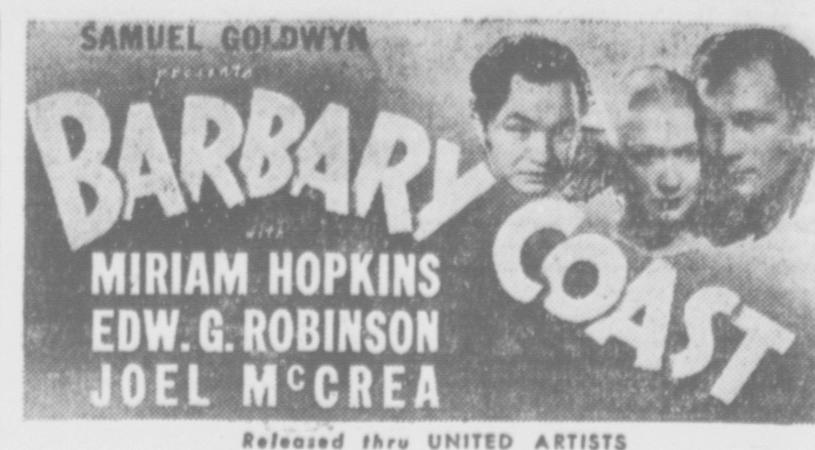

This is very necessary that Bible students and everyone interested in latter day prophecy, whether saint or sinner, should hear this lecture. This will show the evils of the times, the revival of the Roman Empire, the part of Europe in the war that will finally culminate, and the rise of the Beast and the False prophet just before the Second Coming of Christ, says Elder Huffman.

Prophecy, as foretold in the Bible, is fulfilling at a rapid rate. People of all classes are sitting up and listening and wondering about the condition of the world in relation to the scriptures, he says.

Saturday afternoon, commencing at 2 p. m., in front of Sterling's store, Sikeston, Mo.

A landslide on Mount Peruna, near Tegucigalpa, Honduras, completely buried the village of Ceibita and its several scores of inhabitants.

CHAPTER 1
THE FLYING CLOUD

A sprawling, brawling, turbulent settlement of tents and rude shacks; its main streets lined with gambling dives and dance halls, deep in slimy mud and deeper yet in sin and crime—that was Barbary Coast—San Francisco, in the early days of the Gold-Rush—before the Vigilantes rose in protest, defying the law in order to establish the law.

Later a noble and great city was to rise on the sandunes lining the basin of commerce and industry. But the early day gold—gold from the nearby hills—was the basis for San Francisco's sudden notoriety. It existed to serve the primitive needs of the prospectors, and also to serve their equally primitive passions.

The prospectors would come stumbling in from the adjoining hills, their packbags filled with precious gold. Starved for human society, craving excitement after the long, weary months of solitary labor, possessing small fortunes in gold dust, they were easy prey for the parasites who infested the town.

The were quickly snatched and cheated of their fortunes. Victims who protested were found dead in the streets, a knife or a bullet in their backs. Their murderers went about boasting and unmolested.

The administration of law and order, under the notorious Judge Harper, was a pure farce. Gamblers controlled the town and the town officials.

To this crude, lawless sea-port town on a New Year's Eve came the clipper ship "Flying Cloud," poking through the fog into the Golden Gate, after 211 days out of New York, and 14 days of blind beating along the coast. Anxiously it blew for the pilot.

At long last an answer came from out of the void. Eagerly passengers and crew lined the rails to exchange conversation with the pilot, to learn in advance all about the gold country.

FAN FARE" AFTER FOOTBALL

Win or lose, football fans must eat, and scores won't hurt their appetites one bit. So if you yearn to play the hostess to a jolly crowd of huge, appreciative appetites, plan a supper after the game for entertainment. It's the kind of a party that almost "gives itself," as far as effort to entertain the guests is concerned. Jollity is the natural reaction after the outdoor air and high excitement of the game. Football atmosphere also gives you an opportunity to plan a unique table setting and clever refreshments, for this is a scheme which isn't so common, and there's plenty of room for innovations and experiment. That means fun!

The supper type of food is best after the game. It has a heartiness and informality which usually fits in better with the keen hunger inspired by outdoor air, and the usual plan of a football crowd to go someplace to dance or attend the theatre later. No matter what you serve for refreshments have plenty of it, and serve promptly so that no one will wish he had stopped on the way or a sandwich.

This can be accomplished even when the hostess attends the game herself, by planning refreshments which can be made ready before the game and served within a few minutes after the crowd has arrived at the house. Of course, the refrigerator is crammed full of relish fare all afternoon, as early prepared as it possibly can be for immediate serving. The dessert is probably a frozen one, and is stored away in the freezing tray. The salad may be chilled and the pickles, radishes, and onions gaining a nice crispness in the cold food compartment. Easy to prepare for such a supper is a casserole which has already been made and put back in the oven for a few minutes a baking tin full of rosy apples which have been baked in the forenoon. An easy menu would be hot sandwiches with assorted relishes and pickles, baked apples, molded au-marin salad, spiced cider, home-brown chocolate ice cream garnished with miniature chocolate balls.

Two ways to get the football to the refreshments picture prominently is by way of doughnuts and baked potatoes. Football-shaped doughnuts may be iced in white or chocolate frosting to represent the seams and laces on the pigskin. A large, evenly-sliced Idaho baked potato can be made to resemble a football in the same way. On its brown jacket outline the seams and designate the opening in an unlace football with anchovy paste or cream cheese squeezed through a pastry tube. The design may coincide with a split in the potato thru which the meat interior has been taken out, seasoned, and worked with cream, melted cheese, and paprika, and then returned to the shell.

Both football potato and football doughnut will lend an authentic character to the gridiron supper table.

Attractive Closets

Make bedroom closets more attractive by painting the interiors a color which will contrast with the main color in the bedroom. With a bedroom in which blue-green predominates use a warm rust tone. Paint the inside of the closet door the same rust tone and it will add an interesting color change to the bedroom when the closet door is opened.

Finish all accessories to match. Shoe racks, shelves, cupboards, etc. Enamel plain wooden hangers. The smooth surface makes it easier to slip garments on and off the hangers.

Insulating Materials

When choosing a material for insulating the house, check for the following requirements:

1. Durability.
2. Vermin proof.
3. Moisture proof.
4. Mechanical strength.
5. Nonodorous.

The final choice, after all these requirements have been met, will depend on the cost and place the material is to be used.

2-YEAR PROGRAM PLANNED than 2 acres a day of grain sorghums. But a 15-foot combine with 2 men will harvest and thresh 20 to 25 acres a day.

A two-year adjustment program for corn and hog producers has been officially announced by Secretary of Agriculture, Henry A. Wallace. A new program was decided upon in view of the facts brought out in the investigation which is required before the inauguration of a new adjustment program and in view of the favorable vote in the recent national referendum among all corn and hog producers.

The extent of adjustments to be required, the amount of adjustment payments, and other fundamentals and details of a new contract will be determined some time after the conference of farmers, state agricultural specialists, and Adjustment Administration officials which was held in Washington last week. It is hoped that administrative approval of a new contract may be announced within 30 days after the close of the conference.

Since a major adjustment problem is to prevent an excessive production of hogs in 1937, a contract of more than one year's duration is essential, Administration officials said. They are of the opinion that farmers will welcome a two-year contract in order that they may know what adjustments will be required and thus plan their farming operations over a longer period of time. Likewise it is pointed out that a longer program would be more economical from an administrative standpoint.

The Adjustment Administration has recommended that corn production next year be limited to 95 million acres, or about 10 million acres less than would be likely to be harvested without adjustment. This would require an aggregate adjustment of approximately 20 per cent on the part of all contract signers. Depending upon the 1936 corn crop and the demand expected next fall for the 1937 crop, it has been proposed that the maximum aggregate corn reduction for 1937 be placed at 25 per cent. During the period covered by the contract, it is expected that individual producers will be allowed to retire an acreage of corn within a minimum and maximum percentage range, as in 1935.

The new contract will provide for a decided increase in hog numbers above the present low level brought about by the drought. Proposed hog adjustments are calculated to provide for a 30 per cent increase in federally inspected slaughter in 1936-37 above the slaughter expected in the present year which began October 1.

The limiting factor in relieving the pork shortage during the past year, corn-hog officials say, has been the time that it takes to increase breeding stock and bring the offspring to market weight after a severe drought-enforced liquidation such as took place in 1934.

Maximum and minimum hog production requirements will be imposed under the new contract particularly to prevent regional dislocation in production next year which, officials state, would be certain to develop in the absence of a new program because of maladjustments in feed supplies and hog numbers brought about by the 1934 drought. Without these requirements, individual producers would tend to expand production to such an extent that readjustments in 1937 would be impracticable in areas where feed supplies were normal or near normal in 1934. The minimum production requirements would encourage hog production in areas of short feed supplies.

The new corn-hog contract will require that an area at least equal to the number of acres withdrawn from production of corn be added to the usual area of the farm devoted to soil improving and erosion-preventing uses. This requirement was a part of the 1934 corn-hog contract but was relaxed when the drought became severe. It was not included in 1935 because of the necessity of providing for an increase in the production of early feed grains and forage crops in order to rebuild drought-depleted reserves.

This requirement as to use of acres retired from corn is in line with a similar provision in other commodity contracts offered for 1936. Such a provision is needed, it has been pointed out, to prevent the use of retired acres for purposes that will tend to create surpluses of other crops and in order to provide for rebuilding soil reserves.

Changes in the agricultural map of the United States, especially in the last half century, are easily evident. But the part that machinery has had in these changes is not so well known, says S. H. McCrory, Chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Wheat lands considered as unprofitable 30 years ago have become profitable thru low cost production—largely because of the development of tractors and combines. Since 1915 there has been a general decline in wheat acreage east of the Mississippi, but the acreage has increased in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, North Dakota and Montana. The Central Great Plains is more completely suited to extensive livestock farming because development of the combine led to the breeding of a dwarf grain sorghum—a low-cost grain when harvested with a combine. A man with a team will harvest not more comparatively low but net profits are high because of low cost production with machinery.

Combines also are making large acreages of soybeans especially profitable in the Corn Belt. Development of silage machinery makes it possible to turn the coarse, low-cost, low-producing forage crops of the Great Plains into palatable winter feeds. With modern hay machinery the Mississippi Valley farmer has increased his hay acreage.

The first result of improved agricultural machinery was large farms and large machinery. But now the trend is towards adapting mechanical equipment to the small farm. The one-plow tractor and the small combine harvester are examples.

"New machinery and improvement of present day machinery," says Mr. McCrory, "probably will continue to make changes in locations where crops can be most profitably grown and even in the kind of crops produced."

SPEED TRAP PRACTICE IS DECLARED ILLEGAL

The practice of dividing bond forfeitures taken from motorists arrested for alleged speed regulations violations by which Carondelet township has gained a reputation of maintaining a speed trap is illegal, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Wolfe of St. Louis county told constables and justices at a meeting in St. Louis this week. The procedure they have been operating under violates the state constitution, he said.

Civic club members, who attended the meeting, showed documents proving that trade is being driven from St. Louis because of tolerance of the trap. Wolfe replied to Constable Doran of Carondelet, who said the arrests were made in the interest of safety, by remarking that the volume of protests indicated deputies were stopping travelers on grounds not justified by the "grounds of safety" allegations.

Skiver was arrested by Daniels at 11:30 Wednesday night when the officer saw him enter the theater and hunted until he found him hidden under auditorium seats.

Daniels had not placed by early Thursday afternoon the source of toy guns which he found on Skiver. The boy is also thought to be the thief who early Wednesday morning broke a rear window of Sellard's meat market and escaped with $3 in pennies, nickels, and dimes. He has denied the robbery and said he bought the toy guns.
